This packet contains brochures with information about the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) and Rural Law Opportunities Program (RLOP) at Wayne State College (WSC). As you probably know, RHOP is a partnership between WSC and the University of Nebraska Medical Center. However, you may be less familiar with our new RLOP program. RLOP is a new partnership between WSC and the University of Nebraska (UNL) - College of Law. Both RHOP and RLOP are designed to recruit students from rural areas and train them to become health care providers (RHOP) or lawyers (RLOP) that will return and practice in their communities. To be considered for these programs, prospective students must be a rural Nebraska resident and demonstrate strong academic potential. If selected to participate, students in RHOP and RLOP will receive the following, contingent upon maintaining the conditions of the program:
